In our own Back to God Ideas series, we have gone back to the original sources to study the details of the definition, different usages, and its proof texts. In this series, we continue with the process of studying the root of the term. The term “root” is very important to our study. In our last study, we referred to a root text for the term “imputation” or “reprobation.” As you can see in the highlighted section above, the word “root” is used in referring to the root of the process/accountability of sin. The “root” of which word or phrase we should be studying at this time is “stumbling.” Here is the definition that is consistent throughout in the word. “Stumbling,” says God, “shall not come at you from the sons of men; [only] in the mind of God, who is to judge the secrets of men.” (Proverbs 16:9) Here is an example of how Jesus used the term “root” in a teaching parable. “A certain ruler asked for b7e8fdf5c8
